

New Store Opening

There is a new store opening near Edgar! Not much is yet known about it but people are excited. The name is expected to release sometime in the next week, but the building is already being built. By the look of the construction site it will be very large. Currently the store has a almost suspiciously overwhelming support and that support is only expected to grow. Few people are worried about the possible side effects of the store. Many others believe that the store could be of great benefit.

It's a big store! -- Person 784

“ I can't wait for it to open! -- Person 649 ”

It is unknown why the company decided to build near this small town, but it could provide a large benefit to the local area. The building is expected to contain a single store with 50-60 isles and something else... Some say that the population of Edgar might increase significantly in the next few years. Others disagree stating that it's more likely to increase the size of the highway to bring in more customers. Experts believe that the store will have a very hard time succeeding with the relatively few local customers. The company however very strongly disagreed stating that the customers will come to them if they bring the right product.

Public Announcement

The company released a public statement that they will be selling many items, although it is still unclear of what type of store this is. Some believe it is a gas station for aliens and they are making an attraction out of earth shoppers. ~~Others believe it will destroy the local area.~~ In their statement they also said that they are banning all lowercase letters within their store while continuously waving.

They stated that their catalog will include the following:
